

ZEN AND INTEGRATED BUDDHIST STUDIES (IBS) WITH HOME LEARNING ONLINE

DRAFT: 26.08.2021 EK

Updated: 24.11.2021 IBS Faculty

Main Course Outline 2022

Jikishoan Zen Buddhist Community is a not-for-profit charitable organisation founded in 1999. Jikishoan's vision is to offer Transformative Buddhist Learning, Experience and Cultivation for Everyone. As part of our commitment to this vision Jikishoan offers Zen and Integrated Buddhist Studies (IBS), based on Soto Zen Buddhism and its lineage through India, China, Japan and Australia.

Since its inception in 2009, the IBS has offered a three-fold Main Course program. The program includes meditation instruction and workshops based on Mahayana Buddhism. Tutorials, consultation and practice interviews with the Teacher and Course Coordinators assist students with their planning and course work, practice, and independent projects.

MAIN COURSE

The Main Course Program aims to provide Buddhist learning and discipline. It combines A, B and C courses which integrate with one another like the Root, Stem and Blossom of a growing lotus plant in muddy water.

Director Ekai Korematsu leads these three courses. IBS coordinators support students in their practice, training and objectives. Participants are encouraged to examine their own cultural and intellectual assumptions. Students are invited to submit a report paper on a topic of their choice in order to complete the Main Course work.

COURSE A

Meditation practice and study in a classroom setting. A full-year enrolment is 8-24 units.

Main Course A (Root) is the entry point to the Main Course Program for a new student. It is the vital base, which nourishes students' direct understanding through studies, practice and experience.

Main Course A weaves together the diverse levels of interest, commitment and experience of students. Each term comprises thirty classes in meditation and Buddhist study, emphasising a practical approach. At the heart of the IBS program is the desire to allow students to explore these subjects from as many different views as possible. The Western education model is used systematically. Buddhist perspectives are cultivated and tested through meditation practice and in-class discussion. Course A integrates with Course B. Course C integrates with both.

A1, A2 classes and A3 classes are held online in the first two Terms.

COURSE B

Community practice and Buddhist study in everyday life. A full-year enrolment is 12 units for B1 and 8 units for B2.

Main Course B brings together students from diverse backgrounds. Each semester comprises 22 sessions of 2 to 4 hours of weekly meditation (Sanzen) in accord with Mahayana Buddhism and the Soto Zen approach to Buddhist discipline. Its scope of study is explicit, detailed and performance oriented. As Professor Kogen Mizuno says in his book, Basic Buddhist Concepts (page 45):

'Since all things change from instant to instant, life is an accumulation of momentary actions and happenings. Each of these moments must be fulfilled, not with carpe diem hedonism but with a provident realization of the individual's full potential.'

Curriculum

A semester is 22 sessions. A student may enrol by semester or year.

Scope

Main Course B curriculum covers four broad subjects:

- Sanzen-kai practices
- Mahayana Perspectives
- In-Ryo training
- Individual Attendance Plan & Log (IAP)

COURSE C

Retreat practice and study in Soto Zen Buddhism. This is a yearly program which operates on a trimester basis of 5 weeks each, culminating with a 7-day intensive period during April, August and November. A full enrolment is 15 units.

Program

Main Course C offers intensive training, practice and study in the daily routine of a monastic community model, emphasising Eihei Shingi: Dogen's Pure Standards for the Zen Community. In his major work, Shobogenzo, The Treasure House of the Eye of True Teaching, Master Dogen says:

'To reach the Truth, one cuts oneself off from using the spoken word and lets the intellectual function die out. This is because going beyond words and going beyond intellect are how one reaches the Truth, since having words and having thoughts is entirely different from the Truth.'

from Ango: On Summer Retreat

Students are encouraged to have a long-term commitment. A 3-year vision is recommended when pursuing Course C study. Students are required to have an interview with Ekai Osho to formulate their Individual Training Plan (ITP).

WHICH COURSE DO I CHOOSE AS MY MAJOR?

- Course A (Root): This Course is a prerequisite for Courses B and C. New students must start with this Course. Jikishoan members or IBS students who have finished one term in A class, or previously attended a Bendoho Retreat for a minimum of 7 days are exempted.
- Course B (Stem): This Course is for a student who wishes to practice in the Mahayana tradition at weekly Sanzen-kai with a Teacher and a Sangha. Attending sanzenkai [B1,B2] provides students with training and an environment for Zen education in community level practice. Integration with Courses A and C is recommended.
- Course C (Flower): This course is retreat-based and intended for students who wish to pursue a curriculum and training in Soto Zen Buddhism for a period of 3 years [KC]. A student may also enrol in this course by year [CY]. It emphasises methods and teachings of the two Zen Masters Dogen Zenji and Keizan Zenji. A face-to-face interview with the Teacher is a prerequisite for Course C admission. Course C is inclusive of Courses A and B.

VISION FOR YOUR PARTICIPATION

We encourage you to cultivate your own vision when you pursue the course work. Having a vision and purpose will make a difference to your life, regardless of the level of your commitment: short, medium or long term. We hope that your objective finds its respective place in our vision to offer transformative Buddhist learning, experience and cultivation for everyone.

ACCREDITATION

Accreditation assessment is primarily based on successful attendance in the Main Course Program (Jikishoan IBS Program Outline 2022).

Attendance Credit:

A student receives credit units for their attendance hours. Upon request, Jikishoan will issue an Attendance Certificate to a student at any point he/she earns above 80 student hours. One unit comprises 10 student hours.

Course Credit:

A certificate may be awarded to a student who has completed 3 course years of curriculum-based training, projects and integrated study.

Assistant Teacher Training:

Internship training is reserved for lay ordained students who have completed post-Shuso training under the Main Teacher's guidance. Criteria: minimum of 108 course units, IBS (5 years), 5 practice periods, and independent projects.

NO REFUND POLICY

Admission and tuition fees are non-refundable. However, Jikishoan may determine whether the remaining balance of the already paid Main Course tuition fee can be credited for re-enrolment within one IBS year. For instance, if extraordinary circumstances prevent a student from continuing their course work.
